

D. C. SPORTS HALL PLAN ENCOURAGED BY CONGRESSMEN

Leaders See Capital as Athletic Center With G. U. Idea Effected.

Supporting the movement initiated by students of Georgetown University to have an indoor athletic center erected in the National Capital, leaders in Congress yesterday expressed the belief that Washington should be made the athletic center of the country.

"In these days when sports are everywhere and when international competition is common," declared Senator Gerry, of Rhode Island, "surely the National Capital should have an auditorium in which to stage some of these meets where the nations of the world meet in friendly rivalry."

Official Attention Promised.

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Chairman Mapes, of the House District Committee, also encouraged the plan. Mapes declared he would bring it to the attention of the House District Committee with a view to making a report on it.

"The city of Washington should have an auditorium or arena large enough to accommodate several thousand people and equipped for indoor sports," Senator Walsh declared. "Such an auditorium could be used for large public gatherings and conventions of a semi-official character. The city really needs such a community building."

Senator McCormick, of Illinois, endorsing the movement, deplored the fact that Washington has no place large enough to accommodate large conventions and expressed the hope that the business men would get together to insure the erection of a suitable auditorium. "The proposed auditorium has been needed for a long time," said Senator McCormick, "and I am glad that someone has taken up the agitation for the erection of such a building."

Senator Sheppard of Texas came out strong in support of the plan. "A city of the size of Washington should have an auditorium," he declared, "and when that city is the capital of the nation, there is no reason why the contemplated structure should not be erected."

Would Be Convention Hall, Too.

"It would serve a very useful purpose," by providing accommodations for conventions, and by encouraging athletics in the District," said the plan should receive the attention of Congress was the belief expressed by Representative Hicks of New York, who declared that an appropriation should be made for such a building.

Senator Gerry of Rhode Island, Senator Ashurst of Arizona and Senator Harrison of Mississippi were others who declared the Washington auditorium should be made for such a building.

CASUALTY SEEKS STUDENT NURSES FOR SLIM STAFF

Drive Will Begin at Once To Relieve Unprecedented Shortage.

Actuated by the unprecedented shortage of student nurses in the institution, the Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital will begin at once an active campaign to recruit its present staff up to the requirements of the District Board of Nurse Examiners.

At the last meeting of the board of directors, Dr. Daniel H. Hitt was appointed a committee of one to take up the matter with Miss Elizabeth G. Fox, head of the District nurse-examiners, with a view to having the hospital registered and placed on an equal footing with other similar institutions in Washington. As the result of a conference with Miss Fox, a survey of the future and the executive board advised as to the needs of the nursing department.

At the present time the hospital is short of eleven student nurses to meet the requirements of the District regulations for registration, and though it is fully equipped otherwise and has one of the best staffs in the city, the importance of inducing qualified young women to enter the nursing profession is one of the paramount issues before the board of directors.

Resolutions have been passed authorizing the recruiting of these new students on a monthly salary of $20, and as the nurses' home was recently renovated there is every inducement for girls, who are thinking of nursing as a vocation, to begin their training at once.

Casualty takes care of every actual case of nursing, and the hospital is not only one of the best in the city, but many in the neighborhood are coming to it for medical attention.

PROSECUTOR CALLS CAMPBELL MOST DECEPTIVE D.C. CRIMINAL

Student-like Appearance of Negro Youth, Sentenced to Die, Belies Diabolical Record. His Crimes Described.

William Henry Campbell, the 20-year-old colored youth sentenced to be hanged on March 11 for the murder of Mrs. Gertrude Harrison Mann, will pay the penalty for but one of his many serious crimes.

He confessed to more than twenty-nine distinct housebreakings, purse snatchings and robberies and two felonious assaults. He can be punished but once, but that will be enough to satisfy the law and all the offended parties.

Assistant District Attorney Paul B. Cromell, who prosecuted Campbell for murder, and investigated the other charges against him, declared his belief last night that the boy is the most deceptive person with whom the police and prosecuting authorities ever dealt in this city.

In appearance Campbell looks like an intelligent school boy, and in no way appears to be the desperate henchman and confederate of the biggest law on earth, Cromell said.

Detective Darnall, of the Tenth precinct, arrested Campbell and recovered from him a large quantity of stolen goods. From information secured from an investigation of this confession, in which Darnall aided, and from Campbell's own statements, Darnall is able to describe some of the negro youth's crimes, as follows:

"Mrs. Akers, 1308 R street; pocketbook snatched west end of Q street bridge a day or so before Campbell was arrested. The pocketbook was recovered from a pocketbook snatched west end of Q street bridge a day or so before Campbell was arrested. The pocketbook was recovered from a pocketbook snatched west end of Q street bridge a day or so before Campbell was arrested."

EIGHTEEN DAYS REMAIN TO FILE INCOME RETURNS

Office to Assist Taxpayers Opened at 1422 Pa. Ave. Hours, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

District residents have only eighteen days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, in which to file their income tax returns for the year 1920. To assist taxpayers in making out the forms, revenue officers have been stationed at the office of the Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue, 1422 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The office hours are from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. This service is without cost to the public.

Much time can be saved both by government officers and the taxpayer, if before seeking aid, the taxpayer will read carefully the instructions on forms—1040-A for reporting income of $5,000 and less, and 1040-B for reporting income in excess of that amount. The bureau's advice in this regard is: "If you need assistance go to a deputy collector or to the collector's office, but first read instructions and fill out this sheet (face and back) in pencil as well as you can."

District residents may file their returns either at the office of local deputy collector, or send them by mail to Collector of Internal Revenue, Joshua W. Miles, Baltimore, Md. Payments sent by mail should be by check or money order, made out to "Collector of Internal Revenue, Baltimore, Md." To avoid penalties of the return and at least one-fourth of the amount of tax due must be in the hands of a collector or deputy collector of internal revenue on or before midnight of March 15.

For her splendid work on five fronts during the period of the war, Mrs. Hilda Wynne, of California, has received decorations from Belgium, France, Russia, Persia and Italy.

SAYS BOSS BANDIT DIRECTS ROBBERIES

Postal Authorities Blame Organized Gang for Looting Mails.

A boss bandit is directing systematic robberies of postoffice and mail trains throughout the United States, Chief Postal Inspector George M. Sutton let it be known yesterday.

"Evidence collected and in hand soon will result in the breaking up of a national organization of postoffice burglars and other criminals who are planning burglaries at many points," said Sutton.

Sutton's special force of 435 men now spread at strategic points throughout the country where the individual members are ready at a moment's notice to jump into the fray when a hot trail is developed.

"I'm confident that we shall soon lay our hands on the bandits who robbed the Toledo postoffice wagon a few nights ago," said Sutton.
